Beloved Bella found after four months

A Northants family was left in tears of joy after being reunited with their beloved dog - 136 miles away from their local shop where it was stolen four months ago.

The Osborne family have spent weeks searching and appealing for their springer spaniel, Bella, since she was abducted outside the Tesco Express store in Rothwell, Kettering, on October 10.

Mum and dad-of-five, Sarah and Philip, even made a touching video appeal - which went viral - but to no avail.

But on Tuesday night, they finally got the phonecall they had been waiting for.

Sarah had been called by a dog warden who had found Bella wandering the streets, and was able to contact them because Bella has a chip.

And yesterday, the Osbornes were finally reunited with Bella.

"We are so happy - and emotional, too!" Philip said. "The moment we saw her we were all in tears. I am still lost for words, which is unusual for me!" Full story on p20

Can Crimewatch catch the killer?

NEW FOOTAGE: Video showing two suspicious cars was made public for the first time on Crimewatch this week

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER

nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A reconstruction of the horrific murder of a Northampton pensioner who was stabbed to death in his bedroom was seen by millions of viewers on BBC Crimewatch this week.

The programme showed harrowing footage of David Brickwood, aged 74 - who was played by an actor in the video - going to bed in his house on Lindsay Road, Abington in the early hours of Saturday, September 26, 2015.

But while the dad-of-three was asleep, two intruders broke into his house. They then knocked down a bedroom door to find a terrified Mr Brickwood in his bed, before restraining him and searching his room.

By the time they fled, the grandfather had suffered five stab wounds. And although he managed to call the police, he suffered a cardiac arrest just moments before officers arrived, and died.

The programme also showed unreleased CCTV footage of two Ford Focus cars travelling in convoy on the night of the murder. The cars were seen going past David's house just before the attack and leaving quickly after it.

Following the show, Northants Police said it had received a 'good response' and was following up some leads.

Sywell scraps 2016 airshow

The organisers of the popular Sywell Airshow have announced it will not take place in 2016.

They say the cancellation has been made because of 'various factors including the likelihood of higher Civil Aviation Authority fees'.

Instead, the annual show - which often attracts sell-out crowds and raises thousands of pounds for Northants Air Ambulance - will be replaced by a 'smaller, more intimate, event' in August.

Editor's Letter

Austerity has been around a while but creativity came first

In London in 1967 an American called Jim Haynes set up the first Arts Lab in Drury Lane.

It was a counterculture place of creativity, producing mixed media projects and magazines.

Some people said it was chaotic and unstructured and some other people said that was precisely the point.

In Beckenham David Bowie helped form another Arts Lab.

A quick dabble on Google will produce a list of 60s musicians who started their careers experimenting in the free and anarchic atmosphere of the labs.

And in Northampton our very own Alan Moore helped form yet another.

He has said in interviews that it was the only organisation he ever enjoyed being a part of.

He also credits it with being key to his development as a writer and artist.

Time passed. The 60s ended. The 70s kicked the stuffing out of the peace and love. The 80s bought off the abrasive anger of the age of bover boots and flares and the 90s put an end to everything by monetising nostalgia.

The modern concept of austerity is not really a new thing. It's been creeping up on us . . .

Somewhere along the line we lost the trick of creating original things for their own sake, without being underpinned by economic logic.

We live in a world where every investment of time and effort has to be justified by some kind of return or reward or it doesn't happen.

The modern concept of austerity is not really a new thing. It has been creeping up on us for years.

And then Arte Artemiou at the University of Northampton created an anti-austerity anarchist conference (which he wrote about for us last November). The attendees decided they couldn't just leave it at that. There seemed to be so much more to do and say.

A meeting was arranged for a few weeks later and a small founding group of people have ended up creating a new Northampton Arts Lab. It's a group on Facebook. There is a meeting in Clare Street at The Lab tonight at 7pm. Among the members: one Alan Moore.

KLOPPGANGER: Jonas Malomsoki looks bizarrely like the Liverpool boss Klopp

'Just call me DJ Kloppalike!'

nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A DJ is being mobbed by starstruck Liverpool fans in a Northants town because he looks just like the team's manager Jurgen Klopp.

Lookalike Jonas Malomsoki, aged 31, of Corby, is being stopped wherever he goes because of his remarkable likeness to the German boss.

The Kloppelganger says that even his five-year-old daughter struggles to recognise the difference between the two in pictures.

But despite hearing the constant whispers of 'doesn't he look like Klopp' when outdoors, Jonas has described his newfound fame as 'crazy' and 'a lot of fun'.

"Now that he is the manager of Liverpool, he is always in the news and so people have been stopping me and saying 'you look like Klopp!'", Jonas said.

"Everywhere I go now, whether it is in a restaurant in Corby or a nightclub in Birmingham, people are stopping me and even saying that I am actually Klopp himself.

"I was DJ-ing in a bar last week and some lads came in and said 'oh look, it's Klopp!'. I said 'No, it's not! What chance is there of him coming here from Liverpool?!' They then said 'well, you do look like him...'

"It's all very hectic, but great fun, too" Jonas, who works as an engineer and moved to Britain from Hungary 10 years ago, added: "Although I don't support Liverpool - as I prefer football in Hungary - I do love Klopp.

"He is such a character and I'd love to meet him!"

Facelift for street

Work on improving the footpaths and roadway in Northampton's St Giles Street will start on February 22.

The improvements programme will be carried out in stages and will be fully completed by May 2017. Parts of the road will close, and the bus stop will be relocated to Deragate.

Flood protected

The University of Northampton's new £300 million campus has been designed to withstand a once-in-a-millennium flood event.

The Waterside campus, which will be built by the end of 2017 and opened in 2018, will actually be 'raised from the ground' to a level that would give the area, which is located next to the River Nene on Bedford Road, a 1,000-year protection.

Police chief: 'Town is safe'

Nicholas Bieber speaks to police chief Adam Simmonds after string of violent attacks in town

A police chief who aimed to make Northants the safest place in England admits the county is 'more violent than I would like', but insists Northampton is a safe place to be.

The words of the county's Police and Crime Commissioner (PCC) come over a week since two murder investigations were launched in Northampton, leading to fears that the town is no longer a safe place to be.

The body of popular barmaid India Chipchase, a 20-year-old former private schoolgirl, was found at a house in St James on January 31, after she went missing while out partying with friends in the town centre. The homeowner, 51-year-old Edward Tenniswood was later charged with her murder.

Just three days before the finding, detectives launched a murder investigation after a group of litter pickers found a body behind a row of houses next to the A43 in Thorplands.

It is believed the body – which was found in bushes – is of missing man Adeyemi Olugbuyi, aged 32, who was last seen in the area in 2013 when he was involved in an altercation.

Besides the murder probes, there have also been a wave of serious attacks in the town in the last two weeks.

The sudden rise in violent offences come just a year after these kind of incidents shot up from 10,194 in 2014 to 13,497 in 2015.

Sexual offences also saw an increase last year, from 1,095 in 2014 to 1,632 in 2015.

Addressing the growing fears of safety in the town, the county's Police and Crime Commissioner, Adam Simmonds, told the Herald and Post: "I would say Northampton is safe, but I would say our county is more violent than you would want it to be or than it should be.

BE CAREFUL:
PCC Adam Simmonds says the town is still safe but people should take precautions

Is Northampton a safe town?

The Northants Herald and Post asked readers online whether they thought the town is safe or not. And out of the 554 people who voted, here were the results:
Yes: 18 per cent
No: 82 per cent

"What everyone should remember is that when they are out having a good time, that they are as protected as they can be, people know where they are and that if you go out in a group that you stay in touch with each other. If you go out on your own, let people know where you are, and if you have alcohol – have a level that enables you to still have control. That's just normal common sense."

Sharing his condolences with India's family, Mr Simmonds added: "It is tragic, and I think it is awful. As a parent myself, you can't begin to imagine what her family must be going through. My heart goes out to them."

"When I took on the role back in 2012, I argued that the violence experienced across the county – whether it is on the streets or in people's homes – was on the same level as Greater Manchester and London and Merseyside, and Northamptonshire has never been seen as a place like that.

"It is more violent than I would want it to be, and we are finding it difficult to tackle violent crime. I think the police haven't managed to do that as well as I would like them to have done. But I do think that generally our streets are safe.

"We have put more police on the streets through special constables – so it's not through a lack of police officers – but we have a more violent community than we would want."

Responding to the assumption that Northampton is no longer a safe place to go out at night, Mr Simmonds added: "I think people should go out to Northampton, and to Kettering and Wellingborough too – but I would urge them to be careful and look after themselves and their friends as best as they can.

Helicopter in near miss with aircraft

nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

Pilots in an RAF helicopter and a light aircraft came within metres of a head-on collision above Northants after failing to spot each other until the last minute, investigators have found.

The UK Airport Board, which investigates near-misses, heard that a Chinook helicopter came within 50-100 metres of the light aircraft over Maidford in south Northants, near Silverstone, on August 20, 2015.

Members of the board, who are all experts in the aviation field, heard that the pilots were flying at the 'same height and head on' at 5.50pm that evening.

The Chinook pilot, who reported the incident to the board, told investigators he was flying at 1,800ft when he 'became aware of a blue and white aircraft, with lettering down the side, in his one o'clock'.

He also reported that 'both aircraft turned left to avoid', and that the plane - which was a Grumman AA5 - 'passed approximately 50-100 metres away on his left-hand side'.

The AA5 pilot told investigators in his report that he 'spent a few moments checking the frequency' on his radar, and that 'when he resumed his scan he saw two small lights dead ahead'.

Concluding the investigation, the board said that 'although the AA5 pilot had taken measures to avoid the Chinook (by turning left), he could have done more to ensure greater separation as they approached head-on'.

The board concluded the cause of the incident was 'a conflict of flight paths, resolved by the AA5 pilot'.

Cloudy2Clear Windows - Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes - not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Trevor Skidmore feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Northampton, Kettering, Wellingborough & Corby areas and Trevor is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Trevor a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

NATIONWIDE APPEAL: Crimewatch staged a reconstruction of the fateful night of David Brickwood's murder

Horrific murder on Crimewatch

nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A reconstruction of the horrific attack on a Northampton pensioner in his own home featured on BBC Crimewatch on Monday night, in a concerted effort to catch the attackers.

The programme showed harrowing footage of David Brickwood, aged 74 – who was played by an actor in the video – going to bed in his house in Lindsay Road, Abington, in the early hours of Saturday, September 26, 2015.

But while the dad-of-three was asleep, two intruders broke into his house. They had removed a pane of glass from his downstairs living room window, before going through his home, and then walking upstairs to his bedroom.

After realising the bedroom door was locked, one of the intruders then broke the door down and grabbed Mr Brickwood, while the other person searched his bedroom.

During this time, Mr Brickwood was stabbed five times, suffering injuries to his hands, leg and head. But desperate to get help, he managed to make his way downstairs to call the police after the burglars fled his house.

But when the emergency services arrived, Mr Brickwood went into cardiac arrest and died.

The reconstruction was followed by interviews with Mr Brickwood's three sons, who described him as 'a lovely man who loved the simple things in life'.

DCI Mick Graham, who is leading the investigation, told the show he is keen to track down the drivers of two Ford Focus cars which were seen in the area at the time.

He also revealed Mr Brickwood 'used to keep significant amounts of money' in the house – which may have been stolen during the burglary.

Northants Police said the following day that there had been a 'good response' to the appeal, and that they were following up some leads.

Con men sent to jail for six years

Two men who tricked their victims into handing over thousands of pounds for unnecessary, poor quality or overpriced home repairs have been sentenced at Northampton Crown Court last Friday.

An investigation by Northamptonshire County Council's Trading Standards found that Sean Lowther and James Delaney called at a number of homes in Northampton and Wellingborough between January and December 2014 and told residents work needed to be carried out on their property.

Delaney was sentenced to 32 months in prison, while Lowther was sentenced to 32 months custody for the Northamptonshire offences plus a further six months for similar offences in Nottinghamshire.

The victims would agree a price and hand over an initial sum of money. The two men would then carry out some work, often increasing the cost to the homeowner or leaving the job unfinished.

Surveyors later confirmed that the work carried out – including roof repairs and block paving – was to such a poor standard it had little or no value.

Victims lost between £560 and £6,000, and one victim was even taken to a cash-point by Lowther to withdraw more money.

Lowther and Delaney, both of Northampton at the time of the offences, admitted a charge of being party to a fraudulent business contrary to Section 9 of the Fraud Act at a hearing last month (January 8).

Clr André Gonzalez de Savage, county council cabinet member public protection, strategic infrastructure and economic growth, said: "This is a significant result for our Trading Standards team. We can work with communities to help them establish No Cold Calling zones and our advice to residents about cold callers is to just say no."

"Residents who want to commission home repairs can find trusted traders at www.northamptonshire.gov.uk/approvedtraders."

TRIP OF A LIFETIME: The group visited America's biggest city to get an insight into local businesses

University students fly to New York on study trip

University of Northampton students enjoyed 'the study trip of a lifetime' to visit successful businesses - and watch a basketball game - in New York.

The 30 students from Northampton Business School spent two days as part of a 'study tour' visiting businesses in the city to get an insight into how they are run. The students were split in to two groups with the Fashion Marketing students visiting a range of fashion retailers, including department store Century 21, renowned hat designer, Patricia Underwood and luxury apparel and accessories brand, The Row.

The Marketing, Advertising and Business Entrepreneurship students also received industry talks from successful businesses across the marketing, tourism and financial sectors, including an insight from NYC & Company, New York's official marketing and tourism organisation, and a tour of the world-famous Madison Square Garden event venue.

In addition to the study tours, the trip also included time for sight-seeing, shopping and strolls around Central Park, as well as a basketball match between the Brooklyn Nets and Miami Heat.

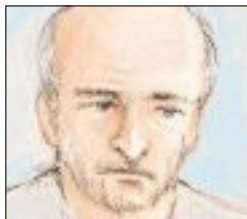

India suspect is pictured in court

nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A court artist sketched the first picture of a man accused of killing 20-year-old India Chipchase when he appeared via video link at Northampton Crown Court last Thursday.

Edward Tenniswood, aged 51, took to the dock charged with the murder of former Pitsford schoolgirl India Chipchase - whose body was found at his house in St James last Sunday, having died as a result of 'pressure to the neck'.

Mr Tenniswood was not required to enter a plea when he appeared via video link from his cell at Woodhill Prison Milton Keynes, and only spoke to tell the clerk of the court 'I can hear you, definitely'.

Balding and bearded Tenniswood, who wore a grey top during the hearing, was then told by Judge Rupert Mayo that he will be remanded in custody, and a plea hearing would take place on May 25.

The accused also heard that the trial would be taking place in the summer and last for 10 days, with the date set being July 18.

India Chipchase, a barmaid and former Pitsford School and Northampton College student, was found dead at Mr Tenniswood's house in Stanley Road, St James last Sunday.

The popular woman, who worked at The Collingtree pub near the home she shared with her mum in East Hunsbury, had gone missing while out partying with friends in the town centre in the early hours of Saturday morning.

The alarm was raised when India did not appear for work for next day, and was last seen outside the NB's nightclub in Bridge Street. It was the next day when police tracked her phone to Victoria Park in St James, and then found her body at a house just two minutes away.

After Mr Tenniswood was arrested, neighbours described him as 'a loner' who didn't have much contact from family or friends.

Call to demonstrate against £77m budget cuts

Save Northants Services is calling for people to support a demonstration/protest on Thursday, February 18, at 1pm outside the County Council offices in George Row, Northampton.

The county wide group is objecting to the planned £77m budget cuts.

A spokesperson for SNS said: "The scale of planned service cuts, and the intention to outsource all services, is unprecedented and will have disastrous consequences for the people of Northamptonshire. This protest is an opportunity for people to express their anger about these cuts and to call for a radical alternative.

"This is the time for people affected by these cuts in services, and/or those who care about the future of services, to speak out."

BLOGGER OF THE WEEK The Tories' 10 mistakes

Cllr Danielle Stone

This week's blogger of the week is Cllr Daniell Stone, leader of the Labour group on Northampton Borough Council. She spells out what she thinks are 10 mistakes by the Tories on the county council.

The County is facing having to set an undeliverable budget.

Mistake number 1. The Conservatives have frozen the council tax for years. Not only has this failed to keep up with the rate of inflation it has had a cumulative and hugely negative impact on the county's base budget.

Mistake number 2. The Tories believe in the free market. This has led to a free market in social workers and other key staff. Social work agencies charge a huge amount of money.

Agency staff earn a huge amount of money. Agency staff cost the county a huge amount of money and are rarely around long enough to deliver a quality service to our children.

Mistake number 3. The Tories believe efficiency and change needs to be driven by temporary, interim, highly paid managers. This has led to abrupt and constant changes in policy, changes in personnel, lack of consistency and continuity.

Mistake number 4. A lack of confidence in locally provided services. This has led to the folly of commissioning services. There are a number of problems with this. The county has no expertise in commissioning. The result has been most of our commissioned services have gone to large national organisations.

Mistake number 5. Services that are commissioned out need to be quality assured, monitored for outcomes and reviewed. There are no resources in the county to do that effectively.

Mistake number 6. Failure of partnership working. Working with partners in the voluntary sector to co design and co-deliver services would have produced a better outcome and been cheaper.

Mistake number 7. Failure to work collaboratively with other local authorities in the county. The county seems to have adopted a big brother attitude to all the districts and boroughs.

Mistake number 8. The failure of number 5 and 6 has led to a failure to draw in additional external funds and government funds to support our services.

Mistake number 9. A failure to invest to save. We need more spent on support, early help and prevention for children and vulnerable adults.

Mistake number 10. This Tory County were expecting to be bailed out by their Tory Government. This proved to be a false hope. No bail out. No money.

Parents must be aware of effects of vaccines

Dear Nicholas Bieber, I read your article in the Herald & Post (about students falling ill during a vaccination day at Northampton School for Boys) with great interest as our local school here (in Suffolk) is about to do the same vaccine combination as that at Northampton school.

The Meningitis ACWY vax is a new vaccine and has a black triangle against it in the pharmacology list which means that it is new, untested and that there is a need for surveillance. Parents may want to know that any adverse effects should be reported via the Yellow Book Scheme to the MHRA. This can be done online or via a GP. (not that the MHRA follows up these reports in my personal experience!).

I am a parent myself and first become alerted to the side effects of vaccines last year after my friend's daughter started having brain seizures after the HPV Gardasil vaccine, another friend's daughter had kidney failure and my old cleaner's daughter too has brain seizures post Gardasil and all in one tiny corner of Suffolk.

Parents need to be aware that modern vaccines contain GM viruses of which the long term effects are unknown. These combined with the aluminium adjuvant in the vaccine amongst other neuro-toxic chemicals are causing a lot of problems not always immediately but after a number of weeks and months as the aluminium salts begin to 'set' in the brain. The boys that collapsed last week may appear well now but could begin to have symptoms of fatigue/nausea/ anxiety/ behavioural problems/ gastro-intestinal/ sleep disturbance/ auto-immune problems etc. The parents and their doctors probably won't connect an onset of new health problems after a period of time has lapsed. I hear this time and time again and parents are surprised and shocked to learn that vaccines can cause adverse effects in some children.

By email, from Joanna Read

'Northampton is not a safe place anymore'

Following the rise in violent attacks in Northampton, the Northants Herald and Post asked its readers if the town is safe:

JAMES ROGERS: There is too much alcohol in northampton town centre. And it is well documented that alcohol can make people violent. Pub/bar owners should be held accountable for selling this drug and the effects it has on people. It is time for a change, there is a safer alternative.

AIR AMBULANCE NEWS

Last year the Children's Air Ambulance teamed up with master chocolatier Paul a. Young to offer budding chefs the chance to get their recipe published. After going through all the entries, and some essential tasting, the winner has been chosen. The winning recipe is a prune and marmalade chocolate cake by Sue Foster and her son Christopher - both from Stanwick, near Wellingborough. The recipe includes Christopher's own marmalade, all of which makes up the cake which will feature in Paul a. Young's new book of chocolate recipes in support of the Children's Air Ambulance. This makes Christopher, aged 12, a winner twice over with his marmalade. He has previously won the world junior marmalade making competition - and used his own recipe in their cake.

EMERGENCY RESPONSE: Police, fire and ambulance crews attended the incident at the youth club

Chemical attack at family centre

nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

Emergency services rushed to a youth club in Northampton town centre after 10 people were sprayed in the face with a chemical substance.

Police, ambulance and fire crews were called to the Spring Boroughs Family Centre, on Tower Street, at around 8.10pm on Tuesday after reports a group outside had been sprayed in the face with an 'unidentified substance'.

When officers arrived, they found 10 young people had been exposed to an alkaline based irritant, which quickly evaporated once sprayed, and were complaining of irritation to their eyes and faces.

One young man in particular was believed to have been suffering with his eyesight and three people in total were 'dry-decontaminated' and taken to A&E at Northampton General Hospital. They have since been discharged, not requiring any further treatment.

Following the incident, the offenders left the scene in a small black vehicle. But police later arrested a 19-year-old man on suspicion of actual bodily harm. He has since been released on bail pending further enquiries.

The next day, church leaders at the Kingdom of Life church - which runs the youth club - said they would be meeting to decide whether any 'further action is needed'.

The church, which sits in the same complex as the youth club, released the following statement: "Following an incident at the Springs Family Centre, in which a number of young people were attacked with a chemical substance, the leaders of Kingdom Life Church wish to state that their thoughts and prayers are with all those affected."

"The leaders will be reviewing the situation as a matter of urgency and once we are clear about the facts we will decide what further actions are required if any."

"The leaders would also like to thank the emergency services for their prompt reaction and professionalism in dealing with the situation."

Just moments after the incident took place on Tuesday night, a Northants Police spokesperson had told the H&P: "Police and fire services have the situation contained. We have no more details at this time."

Officers were then seen at around 10pm conducting house-to-house inquiries in the area.

Most of the emergency vehicles had left the scene by 10.40pm.

The case of ... My missing British and Irish Lions badge

It was the perfect crime.

Nobody could remember anything about it and the only witness was not talking as he had suffered a convenient bout of memory loss.

It was a web of deceit, a riddle wrapped inside an enigma and a cunning conundrum of crime. What it all boiled down to was I had lost a British and Irish Lions badge which I had bought about six years ago in Cardiff. It used to sit happily on my old Barbour. So when I got a new Barbour I took the badge off and thought should I put it on the new coat?

For two weeks my new Barbour hung waiting to get a chance to be used. When I finally got an opportunity my mind prodded me and said: "Oh where is your British and Irish Lions badge? It asked this question as I was getting ready to go out and I had no time to look for the badge."

Lawrence John

To find more blogs and video diaries from Northants Herald & Post journalist Lawrence John visit our web-site.

Nothing like a question at the most inappropriate time which I could not answer and had no time to look for the badge.

But my big question was this... I was the perpetrator, victim and only witness to the crime and I had no idea where it had gone.

How was I going to solve the crime, it was a catch 22 situation. I could ask the victim, but he knew nothing, the criminal had long since fled the scene and the witness well he was next to useless and couldn't remember anything.

This was turning into the perfect cheap pulp fiction and American dime novel rolled into one. Of all the cases in all the world I had to solve this one.

When I came home I retraced my footsteps in the time honoured tradition. But seriously, this didn't help one iota. I thought if I saw something or as I looked around the room, something would act as a trigger and my brain, which knew the answer but was keeping quieter than a dead canary, would somehow spill the beans.

As luck would have it, this turned out to be the key to unlocking the mystery. I moved objects on the bookcase and, lo and behold, the missing badge.

Solvent abuse is still a silent killer in the county.

Last week, a resumed inquest was held at Northampton General Hospital into the death of 33-year-old Pippa Lee Davis from Bugbrooke, who died from lighter fuel abuse.

She had been hooked on solvent abuse for 20 years.

A county organisation which has been fighting solvent abuse for 25 years is Solve It.

They go out to talk to children from primary to secondary school to warn them about the dangers of solvents and how if they tried it once it could kill them the first time.

Project Co-ordinator at Solve It, Jolene Watson said: "Many people think substance abuse stopped in the 1980s with glue sniffing. But what is happening today is young people are hooked on butane or aerosols.

"These are the two common ways in which they suffer cardiac arrhythmia or a heart attack, and this leads to sudden sniffing death syndrome.

"If a young person tries solvent abuse once it could result in their death. They have oxygen removed from their blood and they struggle to get air and die.

"This is why we want to educate as many children in Northamptonshire from primary school to secondary school about the dangers.

"Each year we speak to 2,500 pupils in the county."

When it comes to the effect of a high from solvent abuse this can last anything from a few minutes to just over half an hour. Mild hangovers or headaches can occur after the immediate effects wear off.

When high from solvent abuse, affects may include slurred speech, the inability to co-ordinate movements, euphoria, dizziness, lethargy. Nausea and vomiting are also common side effects during or shortly after use, and users have reported suffering from sneezing, coughing, nose bleeds and tinnitus (ringing in the ears).

VSA can also cause altered perception, anaesthesia – loss of sensation and unconsciousness – disorientation, hallucinations and delusions.

The charity also provides awareness training to the health service to make them aware of the signs of solvent abuse and what to do if they suspect someone of using solvents.

Each year in the country 50 people aged 25-35 years old die from solvent abuse and out of these six are under 18 years old.

At present Solve It is in the first year of a three year Big Lottery funded project called 321 Decision Making.

Jolene said: "The 3-2-1 Decision making project is a preventative education and awareness project that addresses the risks and consequences of volatile substances more commonly

Say Goodbye To Nerve Pain

Advertising feature

with it you may experience excruciating pain and/or some very strange symptoms...

There are three types of nerves in the body:

1. Autonomic nerves. These nerves control the involuntary or partially voluntary activities of your body, including heart rate, blood pressure, digestion, and temperature regulation.

2. Motor nerves. These nerves control your movements and actions by passing information from your brain and spinal cord to your muscles.

3. Sensory nerves. These nerves relay information from your skin and muscles back to your spinal cord and brain. The information is then processed to let you feel pain and other sensations.

Because nerves are essential to all you do, nerve pain and damage can seriously affect your quality of life.

What Are the Symptoms of Nerve Pain and Nerve Damage?

With nerve damage there can be a wide array of symptoms. Which ones you may have depends on the location and type of nerves that are affected. Damage can occur to nerves in your brain and spinal cord. It can also occur in the peripheral nerves, which are located throughout the rest of your body.

Autonomic nerve damage may produce the following symptoms:

- Too much sweating or too little sweating
- Lightheadedness
- Dry eyes and mouth
- Constipation
- Bladder dysfunction
- Sexual dysfunction

Damage to motor nerves may produce the following symptoms:

- Weakness
- Muscle atrophy
- Twitching, also known as fasciculation
- Paralysis

Sensory nerve damage may produce the following symptoms:

- Pain
- Sensitivity
- Numbness
- Tingling or prickling
- Burning
- Problems with positional awareness

In some instances, people with nerve damage will have symptoms that indicate damage to two, or even three, different types of nerves. For instance, you might experience weakness and burning of your legs at the same time. To further complicate matters we don't all develop the same way and different un-expected nerves can cause similar problems. This has made it very difficult to diagnose disorders caused by nerve damage based on which nerve "should" cause what.

That is, until now...

Recent advances in technology that detects nerve damage has led to more precise diagnosis for those people suffering with nerve damage disorders.

And more precise diagnosis leads to better results... results which have been published in major medical journals. With data published in 2014 showing success rates as high as 90% some back surgeons are recommending their patients try this treatment first before having back surgery (for nerve damage that leads to back pain and sciatica).

In Bedfordshire, you can get your body scanned for nerve damage the Atlas Wellness Centre.

EU state governments need to wake up to some hard, cold facts referred to as solvent abuse and new psychoactive substances more commonly referred to as 'legal highs'. "We deliver prevention education and awareness to children and young people in primary and secondary schools, colleges, universities.

"We offer parent and community awareness sessions and we work with community groups and professionals working in the community.

"We also provide support to anyone affected by these substances.

One of the new dangers is young people taking nitrous oxide. While no deaths have happened so far it is a growing trend.

In the UK last year 57,000 admitted using it while 35 per cent of 11-15 year olds have misused volatile substances.

It's a long hard ride on Route 6

H&P Editor Steve Scoles is training for a London to Paris charity bike ride assisted by Trilogy Gym

You've heard of the Brampton Valley Way, running from Kingsthorpe to Market Harborough?

It's also known as Cycle Route 6.

I rode it last month and let me tell you, it was a journey into darkness.

It was a step up from my previous week's 20 mile excursion, a 34 mile round trip that I was supposed to start before lunch but ended up commencing after two.

Nudging the mileage up bit by bit is all part of my grand plan to get used to being in the saddle for several hours at a stretch.

When I come to tackle the first day of the London to Paris ride in May I shall be clocking up 90 miles - and I'll have to do it in time to make the evening ferry at Dover.

So scooting up into Leicestershire seemed like good practice and a nice day out.

I've done this stretch of Route 6 before - mountain biking on a sunny summer day, not paying all that much respect to potholes and puddles.

But this time was different. It was sunny but it was definitely not summer. History will record that the temperature was 5C under a cloudless sky but the route was also littered with treacherous pools of chilly brown rainwater.

As I was going past the Lamport Railway my wheels created a spray that washed the heat right out of my feet.

The temptation to cut short the expedition, do a lap of Pitsford and then go home was almost irresistible. Only the thought of having to creak my way up Merry Tom Hill to take that diversion kept me on the straight and narrow.

After a few miles of gentle breeze my lower legs were cooled to the point of leaden numbness. After seven I stopped for some water. I felt the day was colder than it looked in a downright deceptive way. But thanks to layers of lycra (apologies to those of a delicate sartorial persuasion) I was surviving it.

I pushed on along the converted trackbed and rolled into Market Harborough about an hour and a half later. I should have done a quick turnaround but I stopped for coffee and a muffin. This meant that on the way back I was racing daylight and by the time I discovered my rear tyre was losing air it was pretty much dark.

A layer of cold puddle mud was coating me and the bike. I didn't have a spare inner tube (lesson learned) and I couldn't see a thing so I alerted the missus. She picked me up from Brixworth just as a marauding badger was preparing to take me down.

It didn't feel like a win but it was 30 hard cold wet miles and the training goes on...

Stolen Bella found 136 miles away...

REUNITED: The Osborne family drove to Bristol yesterday to pick up their missing dog Bella

nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

An overjoyed family is still crying 'happy tears' after being reunited with their beloved dog - who was found over 130 miles from the Tesco store in Northants where it was stolen four months ago.

Philip and Sarah Osborne, of Rothwell near Kettering, have made endless appeals for the return of Bella, a springer spaniel, since she was stolen outside their local Tesco Express store on October 10,

She had been tied to a tree while Philip went into the shop to buy chocolates - as it was his and Sarah's wedding anniversary - but someone untied Bella and took her away.

The emotional appeals which followed, to find Bella, went viral on social media with thousands of people sharing the story.

Mum-of-five Sarah had told how her three sons and two daughters have been 'struggling to eat or sleep', and said that 'our lives are on hold'.

But remarkably, four months on since Bella was stolen, the beloved dog was found on Tuesday roaming the streets of a city 130 miles away - in Bristol.

Sharing the news on Facebook yesterday, Sarah said: "Dear all - quick update, we have some incredible news BELLA HAS BEEN FOUND! She's quite far away and we are on route to collect our little boo. So many happy tears."

Huxlow's sports team looking sharp

Huxlow's sports teams are looking sharp in their brand new team kits, thanks to generous sponsorship.

Seven local businesses have sponsored a team each, so the boys and girls football teams all have a stunning new kit for matches.

The Huxlow football teams have a strong reputation for success in the district and county, regularly participating in league and cup games. "I love the new yellow kit. It's different from our usual kit, we're going to play like legends in it!" said J Gaggini, one of the stars of the Year 11 boys team.

On Thursday, January 28, the football teams hosted representatives from their sponsor companies for a morning of football, where they showcased their skills in friendly matches and met with the sponsors over refreshments in the Sports Hall.

The new sponsors are helping seven boys and girls school football teams from Year 7 - 11.

Speaking about the new kits and what it means for the school, Mr S Letts, Learning Leader for PE said: "All the boys enjoyed the morning; they felt smart in their new kit and believe it will help them conquer the District League next year."

- B) a deep wagon rut in the road
- C) the leather strap to bind a hawk's wing

Band is keeping The Beatles legacy alive

BEATLEMANIA: The iconic Bootleg Beatles in action

BY LAWRENCE JOHN
lawrence.john@hpnorthants.co.uk

The Bootleg Beatles have been fab for nearly 40 years which is four times as long as the original Fab Four.

The tribute act, which was born in 1980, has brought countless pleasure to fans both young and old over the years by giving them a taste of what it must have been like to see The Beatles play live.

It is one of these tricks of time where you get a tribute act which far exceeds the original. Much like Dad's Army went on longer than the Second World War and MASH lasted longer than the Korean War.

For the Bootleg Beatles it has been an astonishing ride. One of those enjoying this magical mystery tour is Adam Hastings, who plays John Lennon in the show.

He said: "I have been in the group for five years and it is fun being a Bootleg Beatle."

"I first became aware of The Beatles when I was seven when my dad was teaching my sister how to play bass to A Hard Day's Night."

"I bought my first Beatles LP when I was 13 years old and got Sgt Pepper from Woolworth's. I always bought an LP in the summer to remind me of my summer holidays."

"Since then I have always loved them."

"Playing John is an act so when I go home I can and do switch off."

"What I have to do for the show is act how he acted, how he moved and how he spoke. You can say the lines he said, but it is better if you can make your own up but then they sound like it could have been something he said. The audience seem to like this the most."

I asked Adam what were his three favourite trivia facts about the Bootleg Beatles.

He explained the same people who made the Beatles suits for A Hard Day's Night made theirs; George Harrison once asked the group who was their Bootleg Brian Epstein, and at the Queen's Golden Jubilee, Paul McCartney sent them a note asking them not to play Hey Jude as he was doing this song.

The Bootleg Beatles are at The Derngate on March 12 at 7.30pm. Tickets cost £30. Book by calling the box office on 01604 624811 or online at www.royaland-derngate.co.uk in exile, Rosalind and her cousin Celia leave their lives in the court and go to the Forest of Arden.

The Herbal Bed

IT is 1613. William Shakespeare's pretty and clever daughter, Susanna (Emma Lowndes), to all appearances, has it all.

But her husband's apprentice threatens all she holds dear when he accuses her of committing adultery.

Michael Mears is the perfect Barnabus Goche, Bishop Parry's right-hand man. A self-righteous grimace remains screwed to his face and his monotone drawl is deliciously blood curdling.

James Dacre dives straight into 17th century gender politics - behind the Hall's good wife is a woman who married a man she respected but did not love to learn about his medicine.

In the second half the audience are treated to an almost-sex-scene between Susanna and Rafe so cringeworthy it was practically a promotional for abstinence. They later re-live the moment, arguing about the technicalities of whether or not they consummated their forbidden love.

It is the everyman who has been cheated by this performance. Dacre refuses to decode this beautiful but obtuse text for audiences who are less familiar with 17th century culture. And it's a crying shame if Shakespeare's legacy, the master of the stage loved by peasants and royalty alike, does not draw ordinary people closer to the stage.

PROPERTY TALK

>with NIGEL LEWIS

This home's not a blank canvas

ELUSIVE graffiti artist Banksy has been busy making a political point about the migrant crisis with scathing new artworks on the French embassy in London and a tunnel wall in the Calais refugee camp.

They've both been removed or destroyed, but here's one of his pieces that has remained – relatively – unscathed, and comes with a three-bedroom house attached. His famous Spy Booth artwork, showing spooks in brown trench coats listening into a phone conversation, appeared just a few miles from GCHQ, Britain's intelligence and security agency, in April 2014 – months after former CIA employee Edward Snowden exposed intelligence techniques used by the secret services.

Banksy art can fetch six-figure sums, and one collector in the United States offered owner David Possee more than £1m to take down the mural and move it to his home in New York. However, the local council in Cheltenham quickly gave the 8ft high tourist magnet listed building protection to stop it being altered. It means the property's new owner won't be able to cash in by removing the work and selling it on. Although this house is valued at £210,000, the new owner will also have to fork out for a complete overhaul as the living room, dining room, kitchen/breakfast room and patio courtyard are in a pretty bad state – and the mural itself has been vandalised.

Notorious hospital's home start

DAVID Bowie was inspired to pen Jump They Say and All The Madmen about his step-brother Terry Burns who committed suicide in 1985 by laying on railway tracks. Burns had been a patient at Cane Hill psychiatric hospital which, ironically, had featured on the American release of Bowie's 1970 album The Man Who Sold The World.

Other stars also have links to the former lunatic asylum, including Michael Caine, whose epileptic half-brother David lived at Cane Hill – a secret their mother kept from the family for 50 years. Charlie Chaplin's mother Hannah was a patient there in the early 1900s.

Opened in 1882, the main part of the site closed in 1991 as the NHS focused on its Care in the Community mental health programme. Once derelict, it became a target for arsonists, vandals and ghost-hunters; a documentary film maker reported seeing the figure of a man wandering around the trees near the grave of the hospital's first superintendent Sir James Moody.

It's now been given a complete overhaul by developers and only the chapel, water tower and part of the facade of the administration building remain.

Families are expected to start moving into the first of 650 new homes soon, with prices for a four-bedroom property starting at £619,995.

Houses at Cane Hill Park in Coulsdon, Surrey, have energy efficient credentials and will include rooftop solar panels.

Home to very fast family

Huge crowds gathered on a beach in Wales last summer to witness the iconic Sunbeam Bluebird motoring at a sedate 50mph along the sand.

But driver Don Wales wasn't trying to break records, he was recreating iconic pictures from the original run in the painstakingly restored car in which his grandfather Sir Malcolm Campbell had broken the land speed record nine decades ago.

The fast-living former RAF pilot first made motoring history in 1924 at 146.16mph at Pendine Sands near Carmarthen Bay and went on to become a national hero after topping 300mph on Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah nine years later.

Having conquered the track, the speed-loving Campbell turned his attentions to the water, setting a series of records and eventually reaching 142mph on the Lake District's Coniston Water in 1939. Son Donald carried on the family tradition but died in 1967 when his jet-powered boat, the Bluebird K7, broke up as he was travelling at more than 300mph on Coniston.

At the height of his fame in the 1930s, Malcolm Campbell owned grade II listed Headley Hall in Epsom, Surrey. When war broke out in 1939, he was so concerned for his family's safety that he built a vast bomb shelter on the estate as well as a secure cellar storage for his many racing trophies.

Built in the late 18th century, the eight-bedroom country house is set in 43 acres, which includes woodland. It features a ballroom, cellars, staff accommodation, swimming pool and pool house, and tennis court. It's on the market for £4.95m.

Would life here be catastrophic?

FANS of dark TV rom-com Catastrophe will have to hope there's a third series to find out whether Sharon and Rob can salvage their marriage. The last episode saw Sharon Horgan and Rob Delaney as Sharon and Rob Norris spiralling into bad behaviour, with Sharon making a bad mistake on a night out with party pal Kate and Rob falling off the wagon, in the critically-acclaimed comedy about the pain and joy of parenthood.

This super-stylish flat was the on-screen home of Rob's AA buddy and all-round bad influence Dave, who was shown relapsing with near fatal consequences.

The photogenic one-bedroom industrial-chic property has also featured in TV's The Honourable Woman and Silent Witness, and is a nice little earner for the owners. Once used as an art gallery, it's all high ceilings, original brickwork and steel columns, and has a concrete modular floor system that runs from inside to outside on the ground floor, with under-floor heating throughout.

There's a reception room and mezzanine office space on the ground floor, while the adjacent kitchen and dining room have glazed doors onto a patio garden. A spiral staircase connects the lower level where there's a single sleeping area and a large master bedroom with en-suite.

The agent reckons it would be perfect for someone working from home as the front half of the ground floor can be sectioned off with a sliding door.

Dingley Place is in a quiet Clerkenwell street a short walk from the City, and is for sale at £2.15m.

Ringo's home is going for a song

FAB-Four joker Ringo Starr is a hard rocking pensioner, touring the globe with his All-Starr band and living a healthy Californian lifestyle.

But the 75-year-old was a sickly child who was once in hospital for a year and learnt to read and write at home during his many absences from school.

The Beatles drummer spent much of this enforced leave in a modest Liverpool two-up two-down – 10 Admiral Grove in Toxteth – after moving in as a young boy with his mother, and called it home until he was 21.

The house still attracts fans daily as it's part of the official Beatles Tour. Former tenant Margaret Gorse, who lived there for 37 years, used to invite people inside until her death last year.

It's now up for grabs at auction, although the new owner won't be able to turn it into a tourist attraction or museum, under conditions of the sale.

The Victorian terraced house has a guide price of £55,000, but auctioneers Countrywide believe it will attract international interest.

At a Cavern Club auction last year, Sir Paul McCartney's childhood home at 72 Western Avenue, Speke, sold in six minutes to a local mystery buyer for £150,000. And in 2013, John Lennon's childhood home at 9 Newcastle Road in Wavertree, sold at auction for £480,000.

Starr's birthplace at 9 Madryn Street in the city was at risk of being demolished but now looks likely to be refurbished as part of a new development.

Powerful Swift is a flyer

Suzuki has introduced the Swift Special Edition SZ-L model based on the mid-grade SZ3. It's on sale now and priced at £10,999 for the three door model and £11,499 for the five door version.

Following further strong success of the Swift model in 2015 with a 21 per cent increase in sales year on year, Suzuki has now added further customer appeal with the launch of the Special Edition SZ-L model, available as either three or five door with manual transmission.

The SZ-L is based on the popular SZ3 which is well equipped as standard with seven airbags, ESP, air conditioning, USB port, Bluetooth and LED daytime running lights and adds a unique exterior design with gloss black 16" alloy wheels, rear upper spoiler and SZ-L badging.

Further standard equipment features for SZ-L include satellite navigation, DAB radio, cruise control, sport type steering wheel with silver stitching plus further silver stitching to the seats and gear lever boot. SZ-L is available in seven colours including new Horizon Orange metallic which is available for the first time on Swift; metallic paint is a £430 option.

The Swift SZ-L offers value for money in terms of running costs and purchase price; the 1.2-litre

SWIFT SHIFT: New model combines frugal fuel use with liberal lashings of power and pizzazz

Dual VVT 94PS engine is one of the most powerful in its class, but offers low emissions of just 116g/km CO2 costing £30 in annual VED after the first year and returns a frugal 56.5mpg on the official combined cycle. What Car? magazine recently achieved close to this figure in their 'True MPG' testing at 51.7mpg.

SZ-L is in insurance group 11E, the same low group as the rest of the Swift 1.2-litre range, making it the ideal purchase for younger Swift buyers who want to own a more striking, design led car at an affordable cost.

A range of flexible options from Suzuki Financial Services are on offer with a Nil deposit PCP (Personal Contract Purchase) available followed by 42 monthly payments of £165 for the three door SZ-L and just £10 more per month for the five door model.

Payments can be as low as £99 per month for the three-door if a deposit of £2,772 is made. This is also over a 42 month period with a final payment required at the end of the term to keep the car.

Renault Kadjar

Take a look inside...

The Renault Kadjar dives into the crossover market, firing a broadside at the likes of the Mazda CX5, the Volkswagen Tiguan and the Hyundai Tucson. It's a good-looking thing based on the same running gear as its alliance sibling, the Nissan Qashqai. Offered in either front or all-wheel drive, first impressions seem extremely promising.

The Kadjar runs on what they call the CMF-C/D platform, terminology which might make as little sense to you as the name 'Kadjar'. In fact, it references Renault and Nissan's largest shared modular chassis. This model uses much the same 1.5 and 1.6-litre turbodiesel engines seen in the Qashqai, the 1.5-litre unit developing 110bhp and offering the option of EDC twin clutch automatic transmission. And the 1.6-litre unit offering 130bhp and alone offering the option of 4WD. There's also a 1.2-litre 130bhp TCe petrol option for those wanting it.

The basic suspension setup is also carried over from the Qashqai, albeit with some Renault-specific tuning. It's manoeuvrable in town, with a tight 10.72m turning circle and the driving position has been designed to mirror that of a typical saloon, rather than a high-set 4x4.

It's not designed for anything too serious off-road but is still offered in both front and all-wheel drive guises. The front-wheel drive versions are fitted with an 'Extended Grip' system, which is claimed to enhance grip on low-traction surfaces. The all-wheel drive system offers three specific modes: Auto, Lock and FWD. If you do choose to take the Kadjar off the beaten track, a 19cm high ground clearance lends it some ability, while front and rear skid plates will help if the 18 degree approach and 25 degree departure angles prove insufficient.

The fascia is neatly executed with decent materials choices. The boot is a useful 42-litres bigger than a Qashqai's at 472-litres.

The success of the Nissan Qashqai has been a phenomenon and it seems bizarre that partner Renault has been left out in the cold for so long with no spin-off crossover vehicle. The Kadjar is a case of 'better late than never' and while there is the chance that it will scavenge a few Nissan sales, Renault firmly believes that it'll be sufficiently strong to purloin more than a few orders from Kia, Volkswagen and other makers of medium-sized crossovers.

Mazda MX-5 and all-new Mazda CX-3 have been named as finalists for the overall World Car of the Year title, plus both the MX-5 and the CX-3 are listed as finalists for the World Car Design of the Year award. Jeep Announces New Renegade Night Eagle Limited Edition

Plans to continue the success of the remarkable Jeep Renegade were announced yesterday with details of a new limited edition Renegade 'Night Eagle' version. Following in the tyre tracks of the larger Cherokee Night Eagle, which was launched in the UK last November, the new Renegade version is similarly based on the Longitude mid-range level, but adds in features such as unique 17-inch black alloy wheels, rear parking sensors, satin grey Jeep badges and unique Night Eagle badge, coloured roof bars and side mirrors, and satin grey grille rings on a black front grille. Designed to enhance the Renegade's popular and striking design, the new Night Eagle is limited to just 350 examples for the UK. It's on sale now.

British-Built Civic Type R Roars Into Final Five

The British-built Honda Civic Type R has roared into contention to be crowned World Performance Car of the Year (WCOTY) after reaching the final five in a competition judged by 73 leading motoring writers from across the globe. The accolade marks the first time that a Honda has made it into the final, and the latest in a line of accolades for Honda's 'race car for the road' on the back of scooping the Scottish Car of the Year award in November, and securing its first motorsport success with the drivers and constructors titles in the 2015 British Touring Car Championship.

Want to work in a supportive, innovative environment?

Do you have a Growth Mind-set when it comes to children's potential to 'build their brains'?

Then come to a place where aliens visit, dinosaurs nest, movie-stars walk, super-heroes fly, children have fun while they learn - and where you will make a difference.

The Meads Primary is a friendly, Values-based School, situated in the Limbury Mead area of the vibrant and diverse town of Luton, with a strong, nurturing ethos. Rated 'good' in all areas by OFSTED in 2014, we have recently been awarded Quality Lead Status for our work in raising the achievement and aspiration of all pupils by Achievement for All. We encourage children and staff to follow the FISH! Philosophy, making choices that lift each other up, re-connecting with the joy of teaching and learning.

Town swagger toward century

GRIPPED BY THE COBBLERS

BY TOM REED
sport@lsnmedia.co.uk

Top of the table Northampton Town are on course to break the 100 points barrier after a 2-0 win over York City which stretched their winning run in League Two to six games.

Not only are the Cobblers five points clear of second-placed Plymouth, they sit a startling 16 points clear of the teams chasing the play-offs.

That leaves Chris Wilder's side with the prospect of going past a century of points with 61 already gained with 18 games still to play, a feat that even Graham Carr's 'Champagne Cobblers' team of 1986/87 couldn't achieve.

Now Town face a hat-trick of matches versus promotion hopefuls Leyton Orient, Oxford United and Wycombe Wanderers in the next week, which will prove to be season defining.

They ground out a win over York at the weekend in difficult circumstances as a vicious wind hindered Town from playing their usual composed football, but quality ultimately paid through goals from John-Joe O'Toole and Marc Richards.

Player of the season contender O'Toole notched the first on 21 minutes with a cheeky flick beyond Scott Flinders. Marc Richards sealed the deal after half time with a show of clinical finishing following a quick Cobblers break with the Town hot-shot cutting in on his right and slotting to the keepers left.

Northampton's job was made a little easier by the 56th-minute dismissal of Luke Hendrie for a horrendously late tackle on the free-wheeling Ricky Holmes.

The challenge showed just how frustrated the bottom dwelling away side were with Town's composure on a day when a gale was supposed to prove a leveller but never really did.

The whole club is operating with a swagger at present with fans and staff rallying around disabled supporter Derry Felton, who had crucial equipment stolen in a burglary.

A crowd-funding target of £2,000 was eclipsed in double quick time while Town chairman Kelvin Thomas kindly arranged for a meet and greet for Felton with the Cobblers players.

It's that togetherness which will keep Northampton hurtling towards the 100-point mark. Town travel to Leyton Orient this Saturday and will be roared on by around a thousand fans.

Previously, the shoe army would have approached the match with Kevin Nolan's Orient with caution but the feeling now is that Northampton can beat anyone in this division.

Moloney only has his eyes on Cobblers' task

sport@lsnmedia.co.uk

Northampton Town are fully focused on maintaining their push for promotion according to Brendan Moloney after reports suggested Rotherham are interested in Cobblers manager Chris Wilder.

The Millers sacked Neil Redfearn after only 21 games in charge on Monday and rumours emerged on Tuesday that Wilder, who played for them between 1992 and 1996 was in the frame to replace him.

Northampton say they've received no approach for the 48-year-old and there's no suggestion that he would wish to leave a club that is currently five points clear at the top of League Two.

Moloney said: "When things are going well, as we've been doing, that's when you get linked with stuff.

"It's great for the club that we're getting that notice, but everyone is just fully focused on our job and that's what we're doing."

Northampton were given a wonderful chance to strengthen an already brilliant position last weekend, with promotion rivals Plymouth, Oxford United and Bristol Rovers all having their games postponed.

It was one Wilder's men grabbed with both hands as they defeated York City 2-0 at Sixfields in windy conditions to move a whopping 14 points clear of fourth place.

"We knew it was a chance that we could make it a bigger gap because the teams around us weren't playing," Moloney said. "We did our job, so all in all it was a good weekend for us."

"It was terrible conditions, the worst we've played in this season – the wind and the rain was just horrible."

"It was the same for both teams and I thought we played the conditions as well as we could and we got the result we wanted, so it was another three points and we're where we want to be."

The next three games could go a long way in shaping the Cobblers' season with their upcoming opponents all riding high in the table, starting with a trip to Leyton Orient on Saturday.

The O's have been reinvigorated since the appointment of Kevin Nolan last month, winning three of their last four games, and Moloney believes their player-manager will provide a considerable threat on the pitch.

"He will be a dangerous player in League Two," he said, adding: "He's not been out of the game too long, has he? Until the end of last season he was in the Premier League. He can nick a goal, so he'll be dangerous and they have good squad of players, so if we're not fully on it or fully up for it, they can cause problems."

Moloney's season only began in November after he recovered from a knee injury sustained towards the end of the last campaign required surgery.

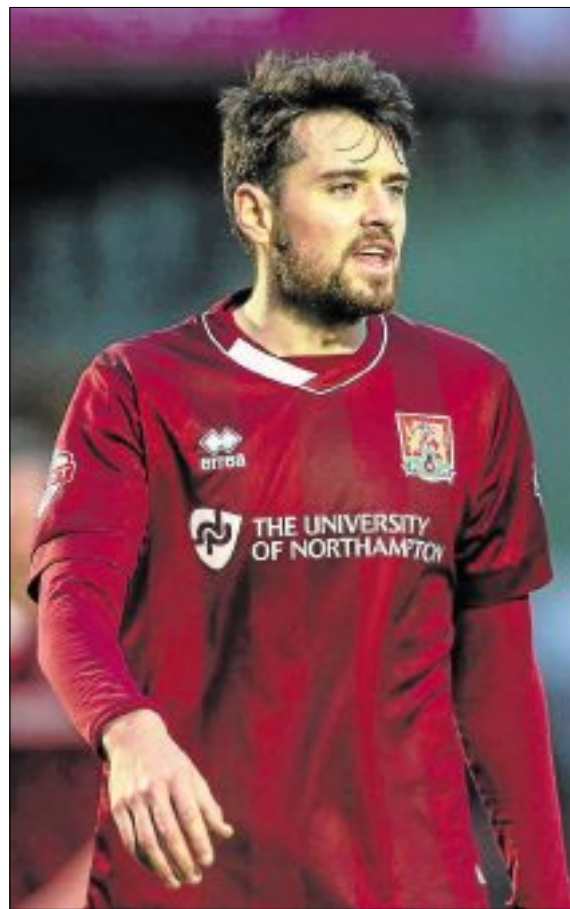

His return has coincided with an extraordinary run of form that has Northampton fans dreaming of League One football next year, but more crucially for the right back, he has been able to make himself a fixture in the side for the last three months.

Moloney said: "The start of the season was frustrating and I just worked hard to get back in and I'm playing regularly now."

"When you're injured you set targets and set goals and I just made sure when I came back that I would be ready and my fitness wouldn't hold me back."

"I think now that I'm full up to speed because it always takes a while. The first few weeks will get you through with the adrenaline and you always have a couple of weeks where you really need to push yourself through."

"You see it with Ricky Holmes now – he's absolutely flying and he's been brilliant since he's come back and he was in the same position as I was."

DEFENSIVE FIXTURE: Brendan Moloney's form since his return from injury means he has been an automatic choice at right back for Chris Wilder

It's great for the club that we're getting that notice, but everyone is just fully focused on our job and that's what we're doing.

Jury still out after a tight opening round

The Six Nations got under way last weekend and it was as tight and hard-hitting as many of us expected, but it hasn't answered too many questions just yet.

It saw England make a winning start under Eddie Jones as they were solid if unspectacular in their 15-9 victory over Scotland at Murrayfield.

The Scots went into the game with high hopes of a first win against the Auld Enemy since 2008, but displayed none of the incisiveness seen during the Rugby World Cup.

It was a player that was overlooked for that tournament who lifted the Calcutta Cup after the final whistle as Dylan Hartley capped a successful day that saw the new England captain perform well and generally put a lot of the worriers at ease.

His Saints teammate Courtney Lawes made an appearance off the bench by replacing Joe Launchbury early in the second half and played a part in helping the Red Rose's pack take control, while Paul Hill was an unused replacement.

George North was involved in an absorbing, if brutal, game at the Aviva Stadium as Johnny Sexton's late penalty earned Ireland a 16-16 draw against Wales.

The result suited neither team, in truth, as Wales had entered the Six Nations dreaming of a Grand Slam while Ireland's remaining fixtures make a third successive title look a tall order.

There are still plenty of question marks over France despite their 23-21 win over Italy.

Matt Wright

Last-second winner keeps Saints top four dreams alive at the Stoop

The finish at the Twickenham Stoop on Saturday afternoon had to be seen to be believed as Ben Foden's try snatched a 27-23 victory for Northampton Saints against Harlequins in the most dramatic way possible.

Here's what caught Matt Wright's eye during what was a thrilling game of rugby that had twists and turns until the final whistle.

Man of the match - Luther Burrell

He's been frustrated with his form this season, but Burrell was back at his best and was the focal point of what was a better showing from Saints backline. He scored their second try of the afternoon and also played a big role in the other two occasions they crossed the white-wash, not least supplying the pass for Foden's winner.

Moment of the match - Foden's try

It wasn't going to be anything else, was it? Foden has scored a few tries in his time, but rarely one so important or one that has brought out such emotion.

He took his winning score superbly as well, receiving the ball from Burrell before dummieing a pass to Jamie Elliott, which created the gap for him to go through.

Clanger of the match

This is the other side of the coin of Saints' winner. All Quins' replacement fly-half Ben Botica had to do to ensure victory for his side was to kick the ball into touch with the clock red - he could have run it off the field had he wanted to. Yet, somehow he failed to do this with his clearance and this ended up being terminal for the hosts.

Quins hero Foden relives his late moment of glory

RUGBY UNION

sport@snmedia.co.uk

It's only at the end of the season when it will become clear just how crucial Ben Foden's winning try against Harlequins last week was to Northampton Saints, but the man himself is able to remember it in great detail.

Foden snatched a dramatic 27-23 victory for the Saints at the Stoop by scoring off the final play when all hope, and perhaps Northampton's play-off dreams, was seemingly lost.

With possession turned over after a failed driving maul and less than a minute left to play, all Quins had to do was win the scrum and get the ball into touch to secure victory.

But their replacement fly-half Ben Botica saw his kick stay infield and Northampton pounced to move themselves within seven points of the top four and right back into contention ahead of Saturday's home game with London Irish.

When asked to describe the final stages, Foden said: "When it first went in the air I just thought 'oh it's out,' then I thought 'oh no, it's got a bit of shape on it, it's going to come back'.

"I didn't even look to see where my feet were, but I felt that I was in and I threw it to Jamie [Elliott], he started running away from me and I thought 'oh no, nobody's near Jamie'.

"So I went sprinting after him and once that happened we were back into our phase play. It was just about getting my hands back on the ball and getting back into shape as quickly as I can.

LAST GASP: Ben Foden's score off the final play earned Saints the most dramatic of victories

"All of us - Harry [Mallinder], Luther [Burrell] and me - all moved quite slowly into position, but luckily JJ [Hanrahan] sees it, so Harry just gives quick hands to Luther and then I'm coming on Luther's outside.

"I was just waiting for the last line of defence to bite in or drift in and luckily they drifted out so I could saunter through the middle and put the ball down."

The try cued wild celebrations from everyone connected with Saints, from the supporters in the stands to the players both on the field and on the bench.

It was a most extraordinary end to a thrilling match, which was also an exhausting one for their last-gasp hero.

Foden said: "I was knackered to be honest. When I put the ball down, I was going to dive to begin with, so I'd fall over the line, then I kept my feet and ran it underneath."

"I put the ball down with one hand and as soon as I did that I thought my dad would tell me off because I didn't put it down with two hands.

"Then I thought 'I need to do a good celebration here because we've won' and then I looked around and I just thought I'm too tired and everyone jumped on me, so I just enjoyed the moment for what it was.

"I could have done all sorts, really, but nothing came to mind - I just stood there and let the boys all pile in."

Chris Wilder isn't having to say much to keep the Cobblers' winning run going

They police themselves

sport@lsnmedia.co.uk

Northampton Town manager Chris Wilder believes his table-topping players are now 'policing themselves' and that he doesn't have to say anything to keep their feet on the ground. Last Saturday's 2-0 win against York City was their sixth win in a row and a remarkable 15th in 18 league games as their seemingly relentless charge towards promotion continued.

The Cobblers are now five points clear at the summit of League Two and a staggering 14 points ahead of fourth-placed Bristol Rovers with a game in hand.

It would be easy for their players to get ahead of themselves in such a situation, but Wilder doesn't think he needs to tell them to keep up the hard work that has got them there.

He said: "You always think you've got to say things, as a manager, but I think sometimes you end up saying things just for your own good."

"I said to Alan [Knill], coming off the training ground on Friday 'I don't think I need to say anything' because they get it and they're policing their own changing room, they're policing their own training ground and the games. They've been through that before and they know their way around a football pitch and they know their way around a football season and how it works."

"They're relishing the next opposition and they're relishing the next challenge and I've not had a great deal to do, if I'm honest – make the odd substitution, drive the car now and again for Knilly."

"We've had to put a lot of work in to get them in this position, but the players are running the changing room and making it happen."

RICH REWARD: Chris Wilder was named League Two Manager of the Month

The contrast between the scenario Wilder came into when he took over as Northampton boss two years ago and the current situation has been widely spoken of, but it truly is startling.

At this point of the season in 2014, the Cobblers were six points adrift at the bottom of the table and seven away from safety, but now appear odds-on to be playing in League One in the next campaign.

Wilder said: "We've worked extremely hard and everybody has done that – people behind the scenes have to make things happen."

"The chief exec has been great for myself, giving me the opportunity to make the changes we feel will benefit the club in the long run."

"We've had a big change-around in personnel and style and results show where we were and where we are now, so it's a big change and a lot of hard work has gone into that, it's not just given."

"We're all enjoying the position that we're in – we didn't enjoy the position we found ourselves in two years ago – but we've done extremely well."

Wilder is also hopeful that centre back Zander Diamond will be fit to play in Northampton's away game against Leyton Orient after he was forced off, albeit reluctantly, with concussion against York.

"He spoke to medical staff on Monday and he should be fine to resume training in the week and be ready for Saturday," he said.

"We're not going to take any risks on anybody's health, regardless of whether we want Zander to stay on or not, so that decision was a pretty comfortable one. We took that decision and we're comfortable with that, when you look at the quality of our bench."

Consistency is key for Saints in crucial run

RUGBY UNION

Director of rugby Jim Mallinder is looking for more consistency from Northampton Saints ahead of Saturday's match at home to London Irish, which they'll be expected to win.

Saints have been stung before in games where they were heavy favourites, with the Exiles themselves shocking them in the reverse fixture on Boxing Day, while Worcester have also defeated them.

But after last Saturday's heart-stopping 27-23 win at Harlequins, Mallinder wants his players to now go on a run and give themselves every chance to finish in the Premiership's top four.

He said: "Over the past few years, we've had some good runs and [this year] we really have been inconsistent."

"We've won a few games where we think we're hopefully going to go and get a good run of victories and we've had a few good away wins then we've gone back and lost the following week."

"We have got a chance – we never look too far ahead, but we have got a chance now. First of all we need to win at home now and then we need to take that into the next few games."

Northampton's last couple of games have produced contrasting emotions with the ecstasy of winning off the final play at Quins following the disappointment and anger at their performance in the 24-11 home defeat to Wasps the previous week.

Mallinder said: "You always want to play well, particularly at home."

"Clearly in the Wasps game, we didn't play well and what we want to do is give the crowd something to get behind the team and a performance to be proud of."
